The Yancey Oil and Gas Company is experiencing some of the difficulties attendant upon the sinking of a deep well. As was mentioned at the time of spudding in, this company encountered a very hard slanting rock at about 30 feet below the surface. This rock somewhat diverted the drill, resulting in a crooked hole. To add to their trouble, the sand kept trickling into the hole, giving them continuous trouble. As these troubles promised to continue, the company concluded it was best to abandon the first well and make a new location. Consequently, the derrick and all other equipment was moved some twenty feet and preparations made for spudding in on the new location Monday morning. The efforts of the enterprising people of Yancey to locate an oil field will be watched with keen interest and they merit and will have the sympathy and best wishes of all our people in their endeavors.

And still rains continue to visit this section, very much to the discomfort of that portion of our farmers who have planted a portion of their land in cotton. Last Saturday afternoon rain to the extent of .88 of an inch fell over this section. This was perhaps the most general rain of the year this far, the rain extending west as far as Sanderson, and east as far as San Antonio. Sunday was a bright pretty day and all hoped we were in for a period of dry weather, but Monday their hopes were dashed to the ground when old Jupiter Pluvius again got busy, and as a result of his activities .68 of an inch of rain was recorded, making a total of 1.56 inches since our last issue. As a result of these rains cotton is getting in bad shape and unless a dry period sets in soon the crop will be seriously damaged.

The Aluminum sale, conducted by the E. R. Leinweber Company Tuesday afternoon was a great success. The store was thronged from the opening hours and the company reports the sale of approximately 600 pieces of aluminum before the closing hour. So great was the demand for particular pieces that the supply was exhausted almost immediately. The ladies know the value, and are ever ready to take advantage of bargains, and many a kitchen was equipped at this sale, and the ladies are much gratified at the opportunity the Leinweber Company offered them to accomplish this at a minimum cost.

The ice cream supper on the church lawn Thursday night, given by the Catholic ladies for the benefit of the Parochial school, was well patronized and netted a goodly sum for the school. Blind fold races by the boys entertained and amused the young, while the elders feasted on ice cream and cake and mingled in a happy social way. The closing feature was the raffling of a number of cakes, and notwithstanding the crowd had feasted on cake for two or three hours, the bidding indicated that many still had an appetite for cake.

Rev. G. E. Grueber's name was inadvertently omitted from the list of those who went up to Kerrville last week on a visit to Mr. Fritz Frerichs. Mr. Frerichs is a member of the reverend gentleman's church, who has been one of the "shut ins" since Rev. Grueber took charge here. All hope soon to see Mr. Frerichs restored to his normal health and again an occupant of his pew at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Davis "Forded" over to D'Hanis Thursday to give the business of the Star the "once-over." The Star's subscription list has been making substantial gains recently, but a little more advertising would help the paper materially.

APPRECIATION

We wish to thank the public for the splendid co-operation and patronage extended us in our initial Aluminum Sale.

That it appealed to the public was attested by the immense crowd present and the interest shown.

We regret that many were unavoidably disappointed owing to the limited number of certain pieces.

We expect to repeat the Sale at a later date, on a larger and better scale.

Respectfully,

E. R. LEINWEBER CO.

HONDO SWAMPS ALAMO BUSI- PHILATHEA CLASS ENTERTAINS NESS COLLEGE.

Playing like a team of veterans, with their heads up and taking ad- vantage of every little opportunity, Hondo overwhelmed the Alamo Busi- ness College by a score of 9 to 2 here Friday.

Dresch, pitching for the San An- tonians, did not find Hondo as easy as he did when he pitched against us for the Grayburg Oilers. The boys hammered him all over the lot, es- pecially in the third inning when 5 hits, coupled with about 3 walks, netted the locals 7 runs and conse- quently put the game on ice.

Sham Holloway pitched a fine game, not allowing a hit till the sixth inning, but due to the big lead he had after the third, he finally eased up and the College boys were handed two gift runs. No one man stood out as a star in the game, every man doing his part and doing it well, although "Red" Fly's triple was the outstanding batting feature of the game. A large crowd witnessed the fray and from the satisfaction ex- pressed after the game, we expect still larger ones from now on. The team journeys to Devine Friday and plays Bandera here Tuesday.

Our first quarterly entertainment of the Philathea Class was held at the Rest Room Tuesday afternoon, May 31st. To the forty guests were passed papers with corresponding words such as "ham and eggs" and the ones holding these two words were partners for the first and sec- ond contests. In the third contest they were grouped together accord- ing to the months of birth. All of these contests caused much merri- ment, and quite a bit of thought on each one's part, owing to the ability of the committee of entertainment, Miss Alice Newton, Miss Willie Fly and Mrs. Horace Bradley.

As the afternoon was drawing to a close, the contests being over, re- freshments were served, consisting of fruit and tuna salad, olives and sal- times and ice tea, by the following committee: Mrs. J. A. Horger, Mrs. O. A. Fly, Mrs. J. G. Newton and Mrs. Roland Gaines.

An afternoon of pleasure and en- joyment was expressed by all the guests, and following their departure, the children from the playground were made happy by an invitation to partake of the refreshments also.

Our Class has voted to have enter- tainments every three months, each member being entitled to guests for the afternoon and we trust that our next will be just as great a success as this one was.

HILT-HALLIBURTON.

The home of Judge and Mrs. A. M. Lamm was the scene of a quiet wed- ding last Friday afternoon, June 2, 1922, when Miss Annie Halliburton became the bride of Mr. Martin R. Hilt, Judge Lamm officiating.

Both the young people were prac- tically strangers to the people of Hon- do, neither the groom nor bride be- ing citizens of this place. Merely meeting here for the purpose of plighting their troth for the journey down life's pathway. The Judge in his most suave manner pronounced the words that linked their lives henceforth and sent them on their way rejoicing. We understand they will make their home in San Antonio, and everyone trusts their wedded life may prove one of happiness and pros- perity.

DIED.

Mrs. Anna Katherine Loessberg, nee Wagner, died Friday morning, June 2nd, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. August Weber, of lower Medina, and was tenderly laid to rest at the Lutheran Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, Rev. Walter Kralik officiating.

Deceased was born at Kur-Hessen, Germany, February 4, 1835, and consequently was 87 years, one month and 28 days of age at the time of her demise. She came to this country in 1856 and on January 13, 1861, was happily married to Mr. John George Loessberg, who preceded her in death December 6, 1905. Their union was blessed with nine children, three sons and six daughters, of whom eight survive, one son having preceded her in death several years ago. She is also survived by quite a number of grandchildren and also several great-grandchildren, and a number of other near and dear relatives, to mourn her loss. Deceased was a devout Christian lady, a dutiful wife, a loving mother and a kind and accommodating neighbor, beloved and respected by one and all. Despite the inclement weather quite a large cortege of mourning relatives and friends escorted the remains to their last resting place. We join this entire community in sympathy with the bereaved and grief-stricken ones. R. I. P.

KNOWLEDGE THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

IV.

The treasures of the earth, which constitute the mineral resources of its human inhabitants, took the building of the world through millions of years for their manufacture. The mineral deposits of the earth have been produced without the aid of man, but are a part of the heritage of the human race. Society has largely intrusted that heritage to the care of individuals and corporations. This trust should be administered in the interest of society. Such interest demands that the supply of minerals should be reduced as slowly as possible with due respect for the economic rights of succeeding generations, who, through unending years to come, may participate in the enjoyment of these gifts of nature, for the mineral resources, once dissipated, are gone forever.

How has this trust been executed? Have those individuals and corporations to whom the development of these resources has been entrusted by society given due consideration to the rights of society? It is the purpose of this paper to show that they have not, but rather that they have seized upon these resources, by legal warrant, it may be, but with a selfish disregard for the rights of society and a ruthless waste that deserves the severest condemnation. In fact they have executed this trust more as a band of robbers than responsible administrators. If this be true, then it is high time for society to resume this trust, before these resources have been wasted beyond recovery, and to devise ways and means by which they may be conserved and the better distributed to meet the needs of a developing society. But how to do this is another question reserved for later treatment.

In order to make these criticisms more pertinent to conditions in Texas I shall briefly review the ruthless exploitation of our mineral deposits suitable for fuel, coal, petroleum and natural gas. Coal is the result of a geological process by which the rank growth of vegetation of the carboniferous period has been transformed into a mineral for our use in the later ages. Petroleum and natural gas owe their origin to closely related causes. The importance of coal as a means of the development of civilization can scarcely be overestimated. Its waste is worse than criminal. Its proper conservation by economic methods of mining, distribution and consumption is a sacred duty to posterity.

Of the three kinds of coal found in the United States, anthracite, bituminous and lignite, the last two only are found in Texas. These three varieties are found ranging in value and abundance in an inverse ratio in the order given above. Anthracite, the most valuable, exists more rarely, while lignite, the least valuable, exists in much the greater quantity. There are considerable deposits of bituminous coal underlying the surfaces of several counties in North Texas, extending south from Wichita Falls. The Thurbur district is probably the most profitable, and its product the most widely known in the State. Lignite is the youngest, but most bountiful in quantity, and least valuable in quality. Its profitable mining depends upon its nearness to the surface, its relative hardness and more or less ability to withstand deterioration and transportation to a nearby market. There is a tendency for these reasons to justify more wasteful methods of mining and consumption, which should not be tolerated. There are considerable areas of this coal in Texas extending in a broad band quite across the state to within about fifty miles of the seacoast. It is a valuable resource and should not be wasted for the sake of posterity, who may find more efficient methods of mining and consumption.

The various wastes in mining bituminous coal have amounted to one-half or more of the quantity taken out. The leaving of many large pillars in mining is a waste that can and should be eliminated by more efficient methods. The unequal depths of the strata and the frequent occurrence of shale make clean mining unprofitable. Then again the mining of lower beds to the neglect of upper, because thinner, beds, results in the sinking of the ground and makes impracticable the later recovery of this coal. This waste is more or less because of the system of exploitation by individuals and corporations who are frankly engaged in business for profit and not for service.

The history of the exploitation, development and waste of petroleum in Texas would contain stories of the rapid acquisition of wealth equal to those of the Arabian Nights. It would contain chapters worthy of the annals of rapine and plunder of the Middle Ages. It would reveal such utter lack of due regard for the rights of humanity as to bring a blush of perpetual shame to the brows of our defrauded posterity if not to our own, and this reckless speculation in and

The bearing-down pains were actually so severe I could not stand the pressure of my hands on the lower part of my stomach... I simply felt as if life was for but a short time. My husband was worried... One evening, while reading the Birthday Almanac, he came across a case similar to mine, and went straight for some Cardui for me to try.

illuminating of wastefulness. Some use is made of natural gas in Texas for fuel, but more or less waste continues, and for the same old reason. It is not as profitable to produce and distribute as oil.

Later I hope by the Light of Truth radiating like a beacon from the Mount of Knowledge to reveal methods by which humanity may retard this waste of wealth, recover what remains and conserve it for the use of an enlightened civilization.

TICK EXTERMINATION.

By J. D. Burleson, D. C., Sabinal, Texas.

From the Sabinal Sentinel.

The tick is a universal menace to the stockman, from the capacious pasture man down to the man with but one cow in the pen.

The man with but a limited cow experience does not know the extent of harm done by the tick. To be cognizant of the wreck and ruin wrought by the pesky cow tick we should know the home life, the creation and propagation of the fever tick.

In the pasture, along the creeks, on the sunny slopes and ravines you will find the home of the tick. A close observer will soon learn the difference in looks between the male and female tick. The mother tick is of a greenish color, and after they have filled up and grown very large from sucking the blood of stock, they fall to the ground and crawl to a damp place under chips, chunks, logs or leaves and deposit 4,000 or more eggs, after which the old tick dies, but these eggs hatch in a few days into what we call "seed ticks." Each tiny seed tick has six legs at the start and eight or ten days later it has developed two more legs, thus making eight in all.

Now when we consider all the thousands of mama ticks that follow the same law of propagation, we see how enormous is the tick creation.
These seed ticks, being very hungry, crawl to the top of weeds and grass and as the cattle graze along and touch the grass and weeds these tiny ticks with legs ready to grasp their prey, seize the stock and crawl to the tenderest place they can find on the brute and there with his keen blade nature has provided him with, he bores a hole through the hide of the animal to the blood supply at the point of capillaries, and drinks blood till he reaches the stage his mother did, and if she happens to be a tick-producing tick, she drops to the ground and lays her 4,000 eggs and dies. If he happens to be a male tick he dies without producing any eggs. The male tick is of a dark brown color. In the process of growth these ticks shed their hides, which is called moulting. They go through this process twice.

A milk cow covered with ticks suffers from anemia, and fails in milk at the rate of two quarts per day.
This cow does not only suffer from anemia, which means loss of blood, but she suffers from traumatism produced by the bite of the tick.

Extermination

There is a way to get rid of this destructive pest. Many people don't seem to know or care if the stockman is faced by consternation in the presence of these ticks, but he knows it and is wise and energetic enough to seize the opportunity the government now offers him for the tick eradication. The United States Department of Agriculture comes to his relief. It has discovered a medical combination that it furnishes without cost to the user. This preparation is called arsenical bath. A deep, narrow vat is made and filled with this preparation and water. Then the cow is run through this vat, entering at one end of the vat and emerging from the other. The cow is entirely submerged in the liquid, which in the course of a few days kills the tick.

Every cow is ordered to the arsenic bath that we rid the country of this stock-devastating plague.
Hundreds of places have already succeeded in ridding their localities of ticks by the arsenical bath. Why shouldn't all follow this example?

Fever ticks cost the South millions of dollars every year in dead, mui-lated stock and inferior milk.
Let every man, woman and child rally round the dipping vat with the bovine and equestrian broods and thus assist to eradicate the fever tick.

Miss Vera Jones went to Hondo
last evening.

Could you ask for more convincing

"I came down with an attack of kidney trouble," says Mr. McCall.
I had such a severe pain in my back
I could hardly stoop or lift. My back pained all the time and made it dif-heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly spoken of so I bought some at Wind-right away and two boxes removed the trouble."

Mr. McCall gave the above state-

1919, he added: "I have used Doan's years ago. I think just as much of Doan's as ever."

TICK INSPECTOR VISITS MEDINA COUNTY.

Fred Rodway, District Supervisor of Tick Eradication Work, was here this week from Austin looking over the work in Medina County. Together with Inspector Murray, he visited the various sections of the county, and seemed well pleased with the progress being made.

In an interview with an Anvil Herald reporter, Mr. Rodway said:

"Medina county is to be congratulated on the showing it is making in tick eradication. From the County Judge and Court down to the citizen who owns one cow, they have all done everything in their power to make tick eradication a success, and with the continued co-operation I see no reason why the county should not be released from quarantine this fall."

"I found one community that had been misinformed on some parts of the law as regards the milk cow, but Mr. Murray has seen and talked to the people interested and everybody is going ahead, using as their slogan,
"Get the last tick," and you will find

DEVINE NEWSLETS.

From the Devine News.

The farmers of Upper Black Creek, Messrs. Schmidt, Keller, Bohl, and others, are shelling and shipping corn, shipping out three cars of shelled corn this week.

Messrs. Murray of Hondo, and Rodger of the Sanitary Commission, Ft. Worth, met a few cattle men here Monday night and talked tick eradication. They insisted that the ticks announced "fever ticks" as reported last week, were "NOT" fever ticks—a stenographer left out the word "fever" in answering Mr. Crutchfield's question regarding his dog ticks.

Mrs. Dr. Linseum and daughter arrived in Monday night and went out to join husband and father at Devine, where they will make their home.

A slow, gentle rain fell in Devine Tuesday morning and evening. It was welcomed right in the country, but much of the country was in need of it. It will, however, put a stop to the black land now in bloom, making black land now in bloom season for the other crops to grow when it does quit raining.

Thousands of bushels of fine onions are being put in the fields of Devine, and they are retailing in the stores at prices only a few miles away.

This writer has no special grudge against men; but this is preeminently a man's day and where a nice young man is out for office against a boss, there isn't any telling what the women will do.

It continues to rain, rain, rain, enough too much for present needs. The black land corn crop will be ruined, the hay crop is fine, but this, the onion crop, can be ruined by continuous rains, and the cotton blooming in places, is infested by weevils and they will multiply if the rain continues.

FORD TURNS OUT 6,000,000th MOTOR.

One Comes Through 5 1-3 Seconds Later.

The Motor No. 6,000,000 was lifted from the assembly line in the High Park Ford Plant at 9:14 a. m., May 18th. Just 5 1-3 seconds later, 6,000,001 was finished.

The unusually heavy demand for Ford Cars and Trucks at the present time has necessitated the building of new plants daily. These are shipping in carload lots to the various assembling plants throughout the United States.

The first Model "T" Ford Motor was completed on October 1st, 1908; after 1,000,000 left the assembly line December 10th, 1915; and number 5,000,000 came through May 28, 1918.

Although the Ford Motor Company has produced a number of different models prior to 1908, the present numbering system began with the first Model "T."

WHAT ARE YOU WORTH?

From the Huajillo Leaf.

When a man or woman applies for a position the first question that is put to him or her is, "Are you competent, can you do this work?" If you can, you are given the job; if you can not, you are turned out. How many of us are competent? How many men and women, as well as boys and girls, are worth anything in their community? There is a place worth while for everyone, and that place is waiting for you. Are you going to take it, or let it keep on waiting? You are known by your deeds, and the best thing for you to do, if you have no regular job, is to saw wood rather than remain idle. Be a help to your community, not a draw-back. Your co-operation is needed and will be appreciated if you will only give it. You will find that the respect and esteem of your fellowman is worth more than almost anything. It is only justice to ourselves and to our town to be of some use, and it is up to us to try our best to be worth something.

FLETCHERIZED FARM FACTS

By Fletcher Davis.

The initial issue of the new farm paper will be entered in the postoffice here between now and the first of the coming month.

Enough matter is already in type to fill the initial issue and it is only a matter of choice of material to be used.

Among the contributions is a brief personal message from Hon. Geo. B. Terrell, our present Commissioner of Agriculture.

His Director of Nursery Inspection, Prof. E. E. Scholl, contributes an instructive article on fruit growing. Uncle Sam Neel of Seguin writes an article in his happy, instructive style. Probably no other man in Southwest Texas is so beloved by the teachers and students of agriculture as dear old Uncle Sam.

And former readers and admirers of Co. R. R. Claridge, of Stockfarmer fame, and later of the State News Bulletin, will rejoice over his message to all Texas. He writes in his happiest frame and his old time style and vigor.

And there are other contributions. And if all these good things do not monopolize all available space, this editor is going to splutter around some considerable himself.

You are going to want to see this initial issue.

Don't wait for a sample copy; you might not be reached.

Several of the State papers are advertising clubbing rates for it and we expect business to pick up for it as soon as we can get in the mails with it as second class matter.

You will subscribe for it later as a matter of business.

But now is your chance to subscribe as a voluntary matter of friendship and encouragement.

We need your help to go to the postal authorities with an attractive subscription list.

You can help us do that for only a dollar—if you act now!

After the application is filed you can still subscribe—and doubtless will—but you can't do us the friendly turn then you can by subscribing now.

Do you get me? Those who do will get wise to What's Coming. Don't! You! Miss! It!

6,000,000th FORD BUILT MAY 18.

The six millionth Model "T" Ford Motor was produced May 18th, in the Ford Factory at Detroit. In other words, from the time back in 1908 when the Ford Motor Company began marketing the now famous Model "T" Motor Car until May 18th, 1922, a total of six million Ford Cars and Trucks have been produced. Out of this total, 5,517,956 were delivered to purchasers in the United States alone, and according to the latest statistics, 4,478,248 of these Ford Cars and Trucks are still in daily service.

Thus, it will be seen that out of every five Ford Cars and Trucks sold to retail purchasers in the United States alone during the past fourteen years, four are still in actual daily use, which is really remarkable when the hard service of commercial cars is taken into consideration. This seems to forcibly confirm the popular knowledge of the longevity of Ford Cars.

That Ford products have been quite evenly distributed throughout the United States is borne out by the fact that through the sparsely settled communities in the West to the densely populated cities in the East, practically the same ratio of Ford Cars and Trucks to population exists.

Ohio leads with a total of 290,769 Ford Cars and Trucks in daily use; Illinois comes second; Pennsylvania third; Texas fourth, and Michigan fifth, with a total of 234,081. New York, Iowa and California follow in the order named, each having more than 200,000.

An idea of the important part played by Ford Cars and Trucks in the daily transportation of goods and persons in the United States can be gained by realization of the fact that with the Ford Cars now in operation, averaging a minimum of 5,000 miles per year each, they would pile up a total of Twenty-five Billion transportation miles—equivalent to more than a million trips around the world.

A SIMPLE SECRET OF MEMORY TRAINING.

A good memory is admittedly a valuable asset for every man or woman, no matter what their calling or occupation. It is particularly valuable to business men and salesmen or to those who meet and deal with the outside public.

All kinds of memory-training systems have been devised; some of them involved and requiring an elementary understanding of psychology; others more simple and depending upon the association of well-known objects with the things or names to be remembered.

Any system that will make the memory more efficient is well worth studying; but there is one very simple law of human nature which has as a basis a great principle of memory-training—one that all may cultivate without textbooks or understanding of metaphysics.

This simple secret of remembering is based on personal interest. We remember most easily the persons or things in which we are most interested. This, in fact, is the whole secret of memory-training.

The reason you can remember the names of your friends easily, or recall numbers or street addresses without effort is because you are personally interested in them. The more deeply interested you are the more easily you can remember.

Therefore, to impress names, faces or circumstances on your memory you must forget self and become, for the moment personally, deeply interested in the person you wish to remember. Let him become, for the time being, the most interesting person on earth.

Get his viewpoint and you will find he is interested mainly in himself. When you become intensely interested in him you are accomplishing two things—you are striking a responsive chord in him and impressing on your memory the facts connected with your meeting.

It is human nature to warm up to one who is interested in us. But let me say right here that your interest must be genuine. People soon detect and then despise a sham.

Why, may I ask, should we not be interested in those in whom we come in contact? Are they not human beings, with the power to think and feel and do—just as you and I?

Besides, studying human nature is the most fascinating pursuit in the world. Just make it a rule to become intensely interested in everyone you meet and you will have no trouble in remembering their names.

When you meet a person the first time look him squarely in the face for a moment and forget everything else in the world.

A little practice will enable you to stamp an image of that face and the name on your memory so firmly that you can readily recall it at any time.

Be honestly interested in the personality of the person before you is the simple secret of memory-training.—The American Home.

THE PRINCIPLE OF INTEREST.

One of the most striking laws of the human mind is the power of the attention. This power can accomplish wonders so great that they seem almost incredible. When on a dark night we watch from a steamer the searchlight turned upon the shore, some objects spring into view and seem real, while other objects are lost in the shadows. In the same way the objects upon which we focus our attention become to us intensely real, while the objects upon which we never turn our attention might, so far as we are concerned, not exist. This is true whether the objects be material or spiritual.

It has been proved by experience that we best focus our attention upon the objects in which we are most interested. This is called the principle of interest.

This principle of interest is now being scientifically applied to the education of the young with most wonderful results. In the mind of an apparently stupid child the expert teacher discovers some germ of interest and uses this to awaken the dormant power of the attention, which is then skilfully turned to some associated interest of a higher type, and so little by little a marvelous transformation takes place.

This principle of interest should also be scientifically applied to the problem of labor. This principle of interest will prove an effective factor in the economic differences between capital and labor, but if this appeal is to awaken a genuine response in the minds of the laboring class, it must be clearly shown that it is in the interest of the working man, his family, country, and of mankind, that there should be a harmonious understanding of each others problems. The principle of interest must always go hand in hand with the sense of responsibility, but there can be no adequate sense of responsibility without some measure of having both in profit and also in the loss involved. The

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD.

By Sam Walter Foss

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self content;
There are souls like stars, that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran—
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scornful seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears,
Both parts of an infinite plan—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead
And mountains of wearisome height;
That the road passes on through the long afternoon
And stretches away to the night.
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scornful seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

'Tis only half a truth the poet has sung
Of the house by the side of the way;
Our Master had neither a house nor a home,
But he walked with the crowd day by day,
And I think, when I read of the poet's desire,
That a house by the road would be good;
But service is found in its tenderest form
When we walk with the crowd in the road.

So I say, let me walk with the men in the road,
Let me seek out the burdens that crush,
Let me speak a kind word of good cheer to the weak
Who are falling behind in the rush.
There are wounds to be healed, there are breaks we must mend, There's a cup of cold water to give;
And the man in the road by the side of his friend,
Is the man who has learned how to live.

Then tell me no more of the house by the road,
There is only one place I can live;
It is there with the men who are toiling along,
Who are needing the cheer I can give.
It is pleasant to live in the house by the way,
And befriend, as the poet has said;
But the Master is bidding us, "Bear ye their load,
For your rest waiteth yonder ahead."

I could not remain in the house by the road,
And watch as the toilers go on,
Their faces beclouded with pain and with sin,
So burdened, their strength nearly gone.
I'll help them to carry their load;
And I'll smile at the man in the house by the way,
As I walk with the crowd in the road.

Out there in the road that goes by the house,
Where the poet is singing his song,
I'll walk and I'll work midst the heat of the day,
And I'll help falling brothers along.
Too busy to live in the house by the way,
Too happy for such an abode,
And my heart sings its praise to the Master of all,
Who is helping me serve in the road.

—Walter J. Gresham.

Power of concentrated attention so necessary to efficient production cannot be discovered from the principle of sustained interest.

The method exercised should be that of teaching the employees their relation to the business, explaining how their individual worth is computed, making clear to them the basic principles under which their production is judged, and cultivating a closer human relation with them and their problems.

Mrs. Louis Scherrer and daughter, Miss Florence, and Miss Pattie Fitz-Simon, of Castroville, were the guests of relatives and friends here Friday.

Rev. S. C. Swinney's car is in the automobile hospital and seven kiddies are nursing bruises and bumps that they will remember for a few days, although none of them received injuries of much consequence. The car, with Cleo Swinney at the wheel, had been sent to the ice factory for ice; Cleo loaded up the car with kiddies and concluded he would take them for a little spin before visiting the ice factory, and as time was short he was losing no time. And the speed he was making would have put de Palma or other speed kings to shame. But unfortunately for the joy riders street corners had to be turned and there is where they came to grief. In attempting to make the turn in front of the Buss home the car struck the concrete abutment of the bridge, turned on its side, and the ride was over. Seven children were in the car and it seems almost a miracle that none of them were seriously hurt. A little court plaster and a few vials of arnica will soon heal their wounds. The car, however, is out of commission and it will be some time before it is fit for another joy ride.

Hitt The Boll Weevil Before He Hits You!

The Machine With the Pans and Brushes
DON'T BUY A SUBSTITUTE

Which To Invest $15 NOW in a Hitt Boll Weevil Catcher—Or to Run the Risk of Pasturing Weevils on High Priced 1922 Cotton?

We make the Hitt Boll Weevil Catcher and over 5,000 in successful use in Texas alone proves that this machine with the pans and brushes—EASILY ATTACHED TO ANY CULTIVATOR—will stop the boll weevil.

Why? Because as you work your crop it brushes the boll weevil off into the pans, where coal oil and water washes him in short order. It takes off the punctured squares without damage to the plant or sound squares and stimulates the cotton to BETTER GROWTH by brushing through it.

Therefore we say to every REAL cotton farmer of Texas that we KNOW it is better to buy a Hitt Boll Weevil Catcher for unnecessary chances with your whole crop, than to save a few dollars—so we say Mr. Farmer, don't gamble with the boll weevil. Use our machines and be safe instead of sorry.

Price Only $15.00 F. O. B. DALLAS. HITT BOLL WEEVIL MACHINE CO., 802 Cadiz St., Dallas, Texas.

I wish to advise you that I have used three of your Boll Weevil Catchers and have found them satisfactory, in the way I used them, and they can be used profitably by any man that will constantly use them. I made, on the average, 12 bales more cotton as a result of the use of these machines. In my opinion, a man can make more cotton by using these machines in any year than he can without, for they stimulate the growth of the cotton.—(Signed) FRANK DOHERTY, Austin, Texas, Feb. 23, 1922.

PRICE OF COTTON NOW INTERESTING TO FARMER

Texas Farmers Should Fight the Boll Weevil Hard to Save Staple.

Once more, after two and one half years of lean marketing, cotton has reached the price where it is interesting to the Texas farmer.

A crop failure in Texas this year would be ruinous in two respects. The farmer would lose a chance for a killing, as there is a fair certainty that there will be a good demand at an excellent price for every pound of cotton raised; and second, he would lose the chance to overcome the partial failures in price and yield during 1920 and 1921.

Texas farmers, therefore, should begin to think and work unceasingly for the saving of every length of staple that is possible and come out big winners for 1922.

Texas always has one advantage over every other cotton growing state. Its early crop is invariably in demand by exporters who anxiously await its arrival on the market in order to fill their contract abroad for new crop cotton.

And this year Texas has an additional advantage, because when it rains too much every where else, its just seasonable enough to make a bumper crop in Texas.

With sufficient rain fall already, there is only one thing that can prevent a big yield this year—the boll weevil. These insects are not only a menace to the farmer, but to every business in general.

If the boll weevil could be stopped or even controlled this season, imagine what it would mean to merchants and bankers in the way of sales, collections and deposits, and to the farmer it would mean a clean sheet at the store and bank with possibly enough on deposit to buy the improvements and comforts that he has done without for years.

In this day and time when there is available simple mechanical methods for the control of boll weevils, there is no real excuse for a damaging invasion by these pests.

The cotton farmers of this section should investigate methods of control and select the most simple and economical this year. A heavy expense is not necessary for the control of the weevils, either in labor or material. Use good judgment in selecting your equipment. If you are a farmer and get busy, this paper sincerely advises.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness and that is by a constitutional remedy.
